Back to sch[illegible] for the fiftieth time

Half a c[illegible]chool busing for Sharkey family

September is back to sch[illegible]me, and for Vernon "Babe" Sharkey of Sharkey's Bus Lines in Heinsburg it's the fiftieth year of getting back to the annual routine.

In 1948, Babe drove his first school bus, part of a fleet started by his father, Exie Sharkey in 1946, and the following year, his parents gave him and his new wife Colleen a bus of their own for a wedding present. That single bus was the nucleus of a business which has grown to serve the Heinsburg, Fishing Lake, Frog Lake and Elk Point areas, and through the years, wife Colleen and son Rocky were added to the growing roster of drivers. Daughter-in-law Joanne has been added as a partner in the family enterprise and grandson Jamie made his inaugural run as a school bus driver last year.

Nine Sharkey buses currently transport students to Heinsburg and Elk Point schools, and this year, for the first time, are taking students from Fishing Lake to Elk Point's F. G. Miller High School.

Half a century has seen many changes in the area, but Babe says of his passengers, "kids are kids." He acknowledges that "the roads are getting better" than those he travelled early in his career. Rocky adds that "the pace has picked up and everybody is going backwards."

The Sharkeys have been part of the transportation industry since the days when Babe drove a horsedrawn wagon hauling gravel for local roads. Over the years, Sharkey's Transport has hauled livestock and grain and also had charter buses, body trucks and highboys in their lineup. Today, they concentrate on hauling sod and hay, and are considering getting into gravel hauling. Jamie is currently driving for a company which is hauling gravel in northwest Alberta.

In 1980, an advertisement in the St. Paul Journal said "Good service is a tradition that is build in business only through many years of experience and personal dedication, a case in evidence with Sharkey's Transport."

That dedication and good service continues today, and as another generation of the Sharkey family climbs into the driver's seat, it looks like continuing long into the future.

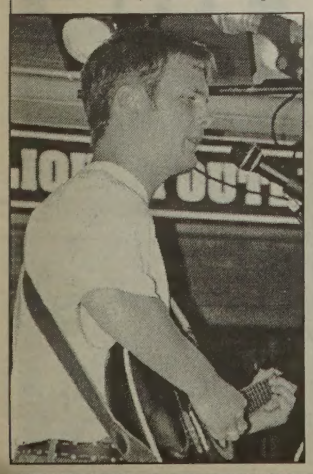
Performers shine at Talent Quest '98



TRAVIS PANKIW is no stranger to the spotlight, and has won other talent contests with his originals.

Vocalists from Elk Point and Dewberry turned in four winning performances at St. Paul's Talent Quest '98, last Tuesday evening at the Co-op Mall. A total of twelve area residents took part in a very entertaining evening of music.

Seven of these contestants were in the under-18 category, offering fiddle music, solos and a duet. Michelle Friesen gave a stirring performance of "On My Own" from Les Miserables to win the $250 first prize. Pam Jabush placed second with the Patty Loveless hit, "I Don't Want to Feel Like That" while St. Paul fiddler Daniel Gervais was third.

In the Over 18 division, Dewberry's Tanya Bowman wowed the crowd with Jann Arden's "Unloved" and Joan Osbourne's "St. Theresa" to take first place. Elk Point's own Travis Pankiw was second with two of his original numbers, a bluesy "Dog in the Pound" and his latest, "Should Have." St. Paul resident Stephanie Winter was third.

MICHELLE FRIESEN is a rising star on the local music scene.

Rural doctors receive an increase in on-call fees

Talks between the rural doctors and the province end

By Keith Robinson
Staff Writer

Success for the Alberta rural doctors was achieved last Thursday as the on-going fee dispute with the provincial government ended.

Under the new agreement, the rates for rural physicians providing emergency on-call services will be $17 per eligible on-call hour which is $400 for a full 24-hour period beginning Oct.1, 1998 to March 31, 2000. On April 1, 2000, the fees will increase to $21 per eligible on-call hour which is $500 for a full 24 hour period

"We are very pleased of the agreement and that the government is recognizing our needs," says Dr. Ray Lievo, head of the medical staff in St. Paul. "It's definitely a step in the right direction as everything appears to be resolved."

Other main areas agreed upon includes to give recognition and compensation for the rural doctors and to try and increase the number of rural physicians; to ensure rural Albertans receive comprehensive and continous on-call services; to provide opportunities for physicians and Regional Health Authorities (RHA) and to work more closely on issues.

"The resolution of this important on-call issue means a great deal to rural physicians," adds Dr. Peter Lindsay, president of the Alberta Medical Association's (AMA) section of rural medicine. "It recognizes their lifestyle and economic challenges and will go a long way toward helping Alberta attract and keep physicians in rural areas."

Nancy Mereska of Hairy Hill, the spokesperson for Rural Citizens Supporting Rural Physicians, is pleased with the final verdict of this dispute. However, it's "only the beginning" for their supporting organization.

"On June 8, we had 35 members and today we have over 1,500," says Mereska. "Not only are we supporting rural physicians, now we are supporting quality health care."

On June 8 and June 25, doctors closed their doors to patients in order to voice their frustrations of a three-year fee deal with the province.

Under that deal, the rural doctors insisted it gave them just $144 for being on call for emergencies, over a 24-hour period. They were seeking $500.

After closed talks, all parties came to the present mutual agreement for the on-call program. The program is outside the formal AMA agreement that was reached back in May of this year. The funding for the program is approximately $4.7 million for the 1998-99 fiscal year.

After two years of implementation, the Rural Physician Action Plan Coordinating Committee will present an evaluation report to the Health Minister no later than March 31, 2001. In adherence, the administration of the program will be with Alberta Health until the same date.

As of April 1, 2001 the administration will be transferred to the RHAs with the program funds being limited to the rural on-call program, which will remain as a provincial program.

A buzz from way back... my, how time flies!

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

I read this catchy title in the September/October 1998 issue of Reminisce — so of course I read the article. It made sense. Clancy Strock stated how he felt when he hears about someone bragging on how wonderful life was back in the good ol' days. He has just one word for them: flies.

He said that back in the '20s and '30s, noting was as persistently annoying — not New Deal bureaucrats in Washington... not the stock market crash... not droughts and blizzards... etc. It was the flies... Now, of course, in the summer of 1998, we have had flies, too. Then and now — my, how time flies — and it repeats.

I never thought of it before — but, we have screen doors. What a good invention! Summer time does bring about those pesky creatures and this year the wasps seem to be more numerous. Yes, the flies could be a story of woe. However, life goes on — soon winter (whoops, I said a wrong word), anyway — "that season"will soon be here as fall "falls behind" and the flies will leave us alone for another season before they "buzz" us again.

Speaking of "buzzing" and "a buzz from way back," I can imagine that recently when you sent your children back to school, you had memories of your own. There is a story of a proud father that took his daughter to her first day of kindergarten years ago. The teacher greeted them at the door and asked Lisa if she knew her ABCs and could count. "Yes, teacher," Lisa responded."I know my ABCs and I can count." "How far can you go?" the teacher asked. "All the way, teacher," answered Lisa. She proved it by reciting, "1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 19, jack, queen, king, ace." Now, wasn't she a "card"?

I suppose you heard about the answer Willie gave his Math teacher. She said, "Willie, how would you divide nine potatoes between six people?" Willie said, "Easy. I'd mash 'em." How that was a farmer's son, right!

Speaking of farmers — did you hear the story of a job seeker who wrote: Hire me as your farmhand, I can milk cows and everything," The farmer wrote back: "Is that right? Won't the ducks and chickens be surprised!"

Anyway, speaking about the use of words and having fun with them, have you ever wondered about what might have been? Yes, you could have been... an innkeeper, but you had reservations about it, ...a novelist, but that's another story, ... a podiatrist, but you couldn't get your foot in the door. ...a bricklayer, but you didn't stack up. ...a neurologist, but you lost your nerve. ... a dermatologist, but it was a rash move. ... etc. Yes I could go on and on, but I hope all this "buzzing around" brought a smile or two.

■ Marathon of Hope

Terry Fox Run pledge sheets are now available

Elk Point residents are once again getting ready to follow the dream of cancer victim Terry Fox, as they seek out pledges for the 1998 Marathon of Hope, Sunday, September 20. In 1997, Elk Point and district residents raised $3400 toward cancer research at the annual event.

Once again, the course will begin and end at the Elk Point Recreation Park Gazebo, with registration at 1:00 p.m. and the event starting at 1:30 p.m. Participants can walk, run, bike, hop or whatever it takes to make the 10 kilometer journey. Pledge forms are available at the Elk Point Town Office, the Alberta Treasury Branch and the Toronto Dominion Bank.

Barbecued hot dogs, refreshments and cake will be served following the run, and prizes including 1998 Terry Fox Run t-shirts will be awarded.

For further information, contact Denise Napier at 645-3775 (work) or 812-2414 (home) or Kris Ann Jenner at 724-2552 (home).

Grandparents Day SEPT. 13th

■ Stay alert - Stay safe

Back to school tips for parents and students

For some students it will be a return to old friends and new teachers, for others it will be the beginning of a new and exciting world of independence, new friends and new adventures. Stay Alert ... Stay Safe, Canada's leading street-proofing program, hope that for all, the start of the school year will be a safe and happy experience.

Being able to talk to your child is key to your relationship. It is wise to start this good habit early so that in later years it remains a comfortable and important part of your routine.

* Always ask them about their day.
* Learn about new friends and teachers.
* Listen for any signs of anxiety that could signal potential problems.

The playground is often the first experience children have with the realities of the outside world. For the most part, that experience is positive, but as children develop their independence and learn to play with others, they also begin to develop a sense of the many different ways people respond to situations.

* If they are being threatened by a bully at recess time, suggest they play close to the teacher on yard duty.
* Inviting a bully to join a game that their friends are playing is a good idea
* If the bully's harmful behavior continues, encourage them to tell a teacher, principal or other adult they trust.

Many parents are not comfortable allowing their children to walk to school by themselves until they are older. Here are a few suggestions to make the trip to school a safe one:

* Know your children's routes to school, to friends' homes and to play areas. Walk with them until you are acquainted with their routine.
* Encourage them to walk with a buddy. Or hire an older student to accompany your kids to school and back.
* Check out the neighborhood with your children and warn them of potential hazards. Point out Block Parent® homes and other safe places.
* Tell them to always refuse to go anywhere with people they don't know. Teach them to step well back if someone they don't know stops to ask directions, so they can get away fast.

Are you drinking enough water?

By Carmen Skrypichayko
Registered Dietician, Elk Point Health Centre

Drinking enough water is one of the most important things you can do for good health. Water is critical to preventing constipation, cooling off an overheated and maintaining biochemical processes within the body. However, few of us drink the recommended 6 to 8 cups each day. Here are a few tips to help you check your water level and increase your intake.

* Thirst is not a good indicator of hydration. By the time you feel thirsty, your body is already dehydrated. Drink often and don't wait until you are thirsty.
* Fatigue can also be a sign of dehydration. A glass of water may perk you up more than your usual coffee.
* One of the best ways to know that you are getting enough water is to check the color of your urine. It should be light yellow in color, about like lemonade. Dark amber colored urine is a sign you are not getting enough fluids.
* Go easy on caffeinated beverages like colas, teas and coffee. Caffeine causes increased urination and subsequently increases your need for water.
* Anything that makes you sweat increases your water requirement. Drink more in hot weather and after exercise. You need to drink 2 cups of water for each pound lost during exercise.
* Drink your water cool. Cool beverages are absorbed more quickly than hot ones and help cool the body.

Street proofing your kids on the Information Highway

By Rhea Marsh
Riverdale School, Edmonton

There are a few risks for children who use online services. Teenagers are particularly at risk because they often use the computer unsupervised and because they are more likely than younger children to participate in online discussions regarding companionship, relationships, or sexual activity. Some risks are:

* Exposure to inappropriate material: A child may be exposed to inappropriate material of a sexual or violent nature.
* Exchanging personal information: A child may provide information or arrange an encounter that could risk his or her safety or the safety of other family members. There have been cases of pedophiles using online services and bulletin boards to gain a child's confidence and then arranging a face-to-face meeting.
* Harassment: A third risk is that a child might encounter e-mail or bulletin board messages that are harassing, demanding or belligerent.

How Can You Help?

To help restrict your child's access to discussions, forums or bulletin boards that contain inappropriate material, there are many commercial online services and private bulletin boards that have systems in place to block out segments that may be inappropriate for child viewing. If you are concerned, you should contact your service provider by telephone or e-mail to find out how you can add these restrictions.

The best way to ensure that your children are having positive online experiences is to stay in touch with what they are doing. One way to do this is to spend time with your children while they're online. Have them show you what they do and ask them to teach you how to access the services.

While children and teenagers need a certain amount of privacy, they also need parental involvement and supervision in their daily lives. The same general parenting skills that apply to the "real world" also apply to the world online. If you have cause for concern about your children's online activities, talk to them. Also, seek out the advice and counsel of computer users in your area and become familiar with these systems.

Guidelines for Parents

By taking responsibility for children's online computer use, parents can greatly minimize potential risks. Consider making the following family rules:

* Do not give out identifying information — home address, school name or telephone number — in a public forum such as chat or bulletin boards.
* Get to know the services your child uses. If you don't know how to log on, get your child to show you. Find out what types of information your service provider offers and whether there are ways for parents to block out objectionable material.
* Do not allow children to arrange face-to-face meetings with another computer user without your permission. If a meeting is arranged, make the first one in a public spot, and be sure to accompany your child.
* Do not respond to messages or bulletin board items that are suggestive, obscene, belligerent, threatening, or make you feel uncomfortable.If you or your child receives a message that is harassing, of a sexual nature, or threatening, forward a copy of the message to your service provider and ask for their assistance. Remember that people online may not be who they seem. Because you can't see or hear the person, it would be easy for someone to misrepresent him or herself.
* Do not believe everything you read online and be wary of purchasing. Remember that everything you real online may not be true. Any offer that's "too good to be true" probably is.

Discuss these rules and post them near the computer as a reminder. Remember to monitor compliance with these rules, especially when it comes to the amount of time your children spend on the computer. A child's or teenager's excessive use of online services or bulletin boards, especially late at night, could be a clue that there is a potential problem.

Try to make Internet surfing a family activity. Consider keeping the computer in a family room rather than the child's bedroom. Get to know their "online friends" just as you get to know all their other friends.

Major excitement coming for teens this weekend

Video dance party will rock the fairgrounds arena Saturday

Elk Point teens are going to rock big time this weekend!

Elk Point and District Lions Club and the Elk Point RCMP are hosting Sights and Sounds Productions Video Dance Party at the Elk Point Riding Arena on Saturday, September 12 from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Sights and Sounds are billed as "Canada's largest and most exciting video dance party" and this is more than just dance music — WAY more — featuring two giant movie-theatre-sized video screens, crazy special effects lighting and a wall-shaking sound system. The music will be just what the dancers want to hear, with all requests, all night, and promises a show packed with high energy, fun and excitement.

This event is geared toward providing safe and enjoyable entertainment for teens, with no alcohol allowed on the grounds and a maximum age of 22 years for those in attendance. The organizers will refuse entry to anyone under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

A number of community partners, including Tarsands, Rental King, JoAl Septic Tank Service and Jonny's Electric have contributed to the event, in hopes of making it a major success. If response to the dance is good, further similar events may be planned for local young people in the future.

Tickets are available at Home Town Grocers and F. G. Miller High School in Elk Point, and at Radio Shack in St. Paul.

Black bear makes unwanted visit

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

Imagine waking up to find a bear standing outside your bedroom window. Sounds like a scary nightmare, right?

Well, it was more than just a bad dream for Maynard Swedgan.

Last Thursday night Maynard and his wife, Colleen, went to bed around midnight. The nearly-full moon was shining brightly into their open bedroom window. While drifting off to sleep something didn't seem right.

Maynard sat up and looked out the bedroom window to see the silhouette of a large bear standing on its hind legs. He had already ripped the screen out of the frame by the time Maynard realized what was happening. Maynard jumped up and yelled to scare the bear away. Then he went for his gun.

"By the time I got to the front door, the bear was already on our front porch," Maynard said, recalling the events.

It was at this time Maynard decided to shoot the problem bear before matters got out of hand.

"You don't care to see that happen everyday."

Maynard called Fish and Wildlife the next morning to explain what had happened.

"They said you're allowed to dispose of a bear if it's on your property. But I told them it was more than just on my property, it was trying to get into my house."

Maynard said he's still not sure why the bear wanted in. It could have been the late supper they had that night, or the bag of garbage on their front porch.

"It is sounding like bears are getting to be a problem around here," said Maynard, explaining further that his neighbors in the Elk Point area have also spotted bears around residences.

Just three weeks ago one of his neighbors watched as a bear stood about 50 feet away from his wife as she worked in the garden. Apparently, the bear just sat there and watched the woman while she was working. Maynard and his neighbors speculate it was the same 450-pound black bear that visited the Swedgan residence last week.

Campers and cottagers have been told that bears are particularly active at this time of year as they try to get ready for hibernation. Bears will eat as much food as possible in order to gain weight before the winter hits.

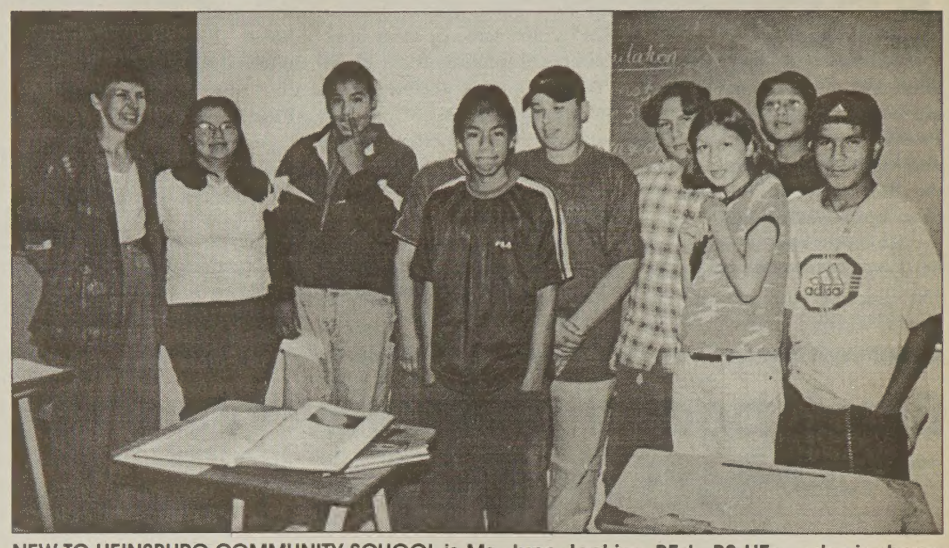
New teachers on board

New faces at area schools

F.G. MILLER HIGH SCHOOL welcomed Donna Rudolf, who previously taught at Myrnam, to teach English in grades 8 to 11, and Murray Boratynec, a 1981 FGM grad who will be teaching Science 7, 8 and 14. Boratynec taught at Heinsburg last year after 12 years in Camrose area schools.



NEW TO HEINSBURG COMMUNITY SCHOOL is Ms. June Jenkins, BEd., BS HEc., who is shown with her enthusiastic Grade 8 Social Studies class.

ELK POINT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL has two new teachers, Christie Sorochan (right) who is a brand new teacher, recently graduated from the University of Alberta, and who has replaced Mr. Meger in Grade 6A, while Kris Ann Jenner, who attended Elk Point Elementary as a child and graduated from F. G. Miller in 1985, is sitting in for Mrs. Tkachuk, who is on materinity leave, in Grade 3. Mrs. Jenner has previously taught in the Northern LightsSchool Division.

How parents can volunteer at F.G. Miller

Parents and community volunteers invited to get involved

Through the years the F.G. Miller Jr./Sr. High School has benefitted from parent and community volunteers who have generously given their time to help in the classroom, library, office, School Council and extra curricular sports. Many people wonder how they may fit into the school and are able to help out. If you are interested, the following descriptions may help you decide that you may be valuable to the school in a specific area.

Classroom Volunteer — If you are a volunteer in the classroom, a teacher would give a student or a few students an assignment or reading and you would be asked to help the students or listen to them. This would be for grade 7, 8 or 9 students depending on the age group you are interested in and the amount of time could be as little as 40 minutes per week. Schedules would be pre-arranged well in advance and would be mainly in Language Arts and Mathematics. Individual help and small groups are very beneficial to student achievement. Advice for success and information about students would be given by the teacher to you to help you get started. Consultation could be on-going.

Home Economics — If you have expertise and/or interest in cooking, sewing or crafts, our Home Economics department can use your help for grade 7, 8 or 9 students. Helping individual or small groups would assist students in their projects. Schedules could be arranged well in advance with the Home Economics teachers.

Coaching — If you have interest in sports such as volleyball, basketball, badminton, fastball or track and field, you are welcome to be a coach or an assistant coach either at the junior or senior level. If you volunteer to be a coach, you would receive advice, support and encouragement from Mr. Adrian Kiss, the F.G. Miller Athletic Director.

Coaching positions that are available at present are Jr. Boys Volleyball, Sr. Boys / Jr. Girls Basketball, Sr. Badminton, all Fastball, and all Track and Field teams.

Assistants can help out in most any sport. Junior teams practice from 3:30 to 5:00 and senior teams practice from 6:00 to 8:00.

Library — The R.E. Beattie Library at F.G. Miller has effectively utilized volunteers the past few years. If you are interested in joining with Ms. Denise Smereka and her team, you may be able to arrange a schedule with her and have a great year in the Library.

School Council — There are many parents who attend the School Council Meetings on the second Wednesday of each month. Some volunteer to become elected members of the executive, some serve on committees and others become involved through their attendance at meetings.

The F.G. Miller School Council is based on the Town Hall Model, which means that all parents have voting privileges.

You are all welcome to become involved in the school this way.

Please contact Jim Hawkins at 724-3966, if you are interested in volunteering in any way this year at F.G. Miller. We would also be interested in any other area that you may wish to assist us in that has not been mentioned above.

The bike path David MacIsaac followed led him straight to the Intersection.

Canada's Healthy Neighbourhoods

Two years ago, David decided he had done enough talking about the benefits of biking. He opened Intersection, a community information centre dedicated to helping people discover that a bicycle can be better than a car for commuting around town.

When you realize that cars and light trucks contribute to climate change and can produce up to ¾ of the air pollutants that combine to form urban smog, it's easy to see things his way.

Reducing your car use is a down-to-earth choice that can help turn your community into one of Canada's healthy neighbourhoods. Doing your part to help our environment is a big step in the right direction.

New grain and marketing terminal opening in Lavoy

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

A Saskatchewan Wheat Pool subsidiary is making grain transportation a lot more efficient for Alberta producers.

On Aug. 24 AgPro Grain officially announced the construction of its newest terminal in Lavoy, at the intersection of Highways 36 and 16. Regional manager Barry Ralph says the terminal will be a benefit to grain producers in the St. Paul and Elk Point area.

"We're not just a big elevator. Once fully operational, we will specialize in grain drying and cleaning to export standards. The grain can go from here right on to the boat," Ralph said last week.

To further assist in getting the grain to port, AgPro also has its own fleet of 104 rail cars with loading on four tracks.

The construction of the Lavoy terminal began in the last week of August and Ralph expects grain handling to commence in about a year. Before that time, the terminal will also be offering grain and crop input marketing through specialists who work in the industry.

"We will be picking up people from all over northeastern Alberta, including the St. Paul area," said Ralph.

The terminal in Lavoy is one of six full-service grain handling and farm supply marketing centres to be built in Alberta by AgPro Grain, and its parent company, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, over the next 18 months. The other facilities are located in Vulcan, Wilson Siding, Killam, Crossfield and Trochu.

Ralph says the idea for expanding into Alberta and Manitoba came with the evolution of smaller elevators and the instability of the rail lines.

"We decided to be proactive rather than reactive ... We are trying to prevent producers from hauling grain long distances."

Ralph also stressed that AgPro is here for the long term and they are working at building relationships with local producers.

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

Hey, kids! Storytime is back this Friday!

By Karina Mitchell
Librarian

Fall is in full swing, with routines established. At the Library that means Storytime is starting again. On Friday, September 11 we will be having our starting up party for Storytime. The theme is Space and we will be making crafts, eating a few goodies and of course, reading stories. So invite a friend and help start a new season of books and fun.

As well, there will be a Library table at the Information Night on Tuesday, September 15 at the Elks Hall. So if you have been meaning to get a library card, this is a great chance to find out about the privileges of having a library membership. There will also be books to sign out, purchase and win, so check us out.

If you already have a card and are itching to use it, here are some new books at the Library:

For Adults --

Two brothers find themselves on opposite sides during the early days of World War II, one as a pilot in the Luftwaffe, the other as a Yank ace in the RAF in Flight of Eagles by Jack Higgins.

Newly single Stephanie meets the man of her dreams in Paris — then she meets his double in The Klone and I by Danielle Steel. Sign up on the reserve list for this one.

Real Boys: Rescuing Our Sons from the Myths of Boyhood by William Pollack, Ph.D. reveals the world of boys to show how society's mixed messages to boys put more of them at risk today than ever before.

Books on Tape —

How do you prove the innocence of a man already found guilty of murder? That's the task Kinsey Milhone is faced with when she takes on the case of Bailey Fowler in 'F' is for Fugitive by Sue Grafton.

For Young Adults —

The scouts are planning an exciting bike hike but first they have to learn about bike safety in Pedal Power from the Pee Wee Scouts.

With summer on the way, the Baby-sitters Club is gearing up for competition instead of summer fun when a new playground camp has only six positions for the nine club members to fight for in Mary Anne and the Playground Fight.

Picture Books

A chameleon searches for a color all his own and, in the process, finds a true friend in A Color of His Own by Leo Lionni.

In The Final Game: The Further Adventures of the Moccasin Goalie by William Roy Brownbridge, Danny's brother, a star winger for the Toronto Maple Leafs, returns for a visit just as Danny's team is about to play their final game of the season.

Library Calendar

Friday, September 11, 10:30 a.m. -- Story Time Party!!

Friday, October 16, evening -- Friends of the Library have a bingo in St. Paul Workers can sign up at the library.

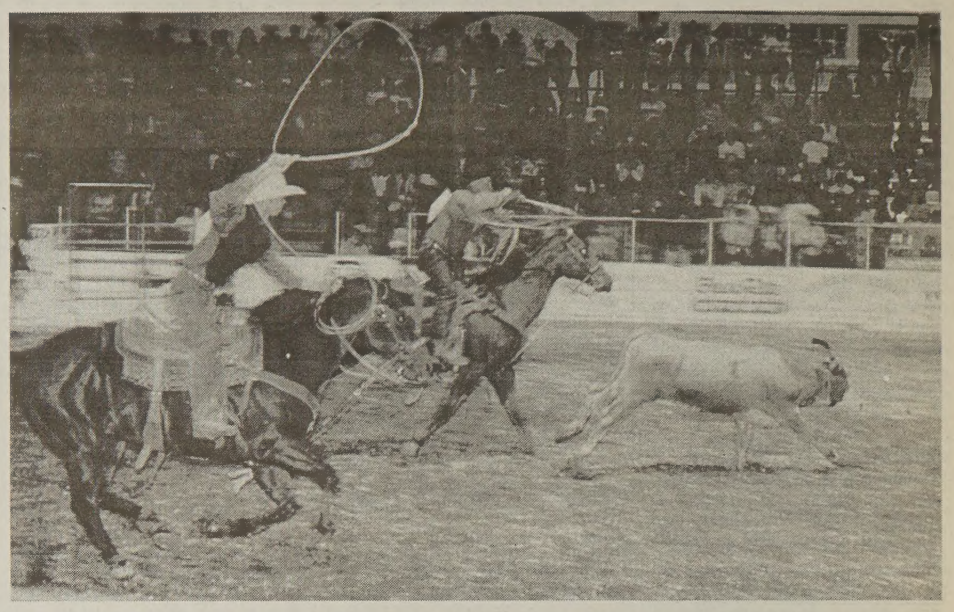
Barrel racers bring home year end awards



CLOSING IN ON THE CHAMPIONSHIP ROUND -- Peter and Matt Veer roped their steer in a clean 6.8 seconds on Saturday night in their best run of the Showdown finals to tie with Darwin Ullery and Todd Snodgrass going into the championship round on Sunday. Unfortunately, their steer hopped out of the heeler's loop in the final round, moving them down to second place for the finals. They won Saturday afternoon's run with an 8.8 after two third place finishes earlier in the weekend.

YEAR END RUNNER-UP in the Ladies Barrel Racing was Wendy Young, who accepted a gorgeous trophy watch presented by Lammle's Western Wear and Wrangler. Wendy's best time of the weekend was a13.789 run on Saturday night to win the go-round. She placed third in Sunday's rinal.
